To,

The Principal

Subject: To seek permission to celebrate 'Matri- Pitru Pujan Divas' in the school premises

Aim: The main objective is to inculcate the most ideal and benevolent pieces of knowledge into children in the forms of very simple and aphoristic precepts 'matridevo bhava | pitridevo bhava |' and increase their devotion towards their parents students through 'Matri- Pitru Pujan Divas'.

Respected Sir/Madam,

The desire of every educational institution and parent in today's competitive world is that their students should pass with good marks and should become sober, disciplined and of good moral character and also that they should respect their parents, teachers and elders. They also want that the students should march forward with zeal and enthusiasm in educational, social and sports arenas and should do their parents proud. But western life style, the TV Channels blindly following it, obscene movies and literature, addictions, impure food habits and morally degrading advertisements on media and internet are leading day by day to their physical, mental, intellectual and moral downfall. This is making them impatient and confused. They need to be taught self-restraint and good traits..

Inculcation of good traits along with character-building in childhood is the foundation for later life. Our Indian culture aims at getting the children scale great heights in their tender age itself. The parents and the Guru are our well-wishers, hence we should not only respect them but also salute and worship them seeing Divinity in them. The sense of respect is enough to ensure obedience, but to enrich it with the sweetness of love the sense of reverence in the pre-requisite. This sense of reverence does ensure that act of obedience doesn't become a means of further bondage, but a natural and nectarine piece of work equalling the act of worship.

It is our humble request to you that on that day, you kindly invite children's parents and makes this programme of inculcating good traits in children a grand success, thereby enhancing children's morale.

Your cooperation will encourage such activities in the society.

Yours faithfully
